Bodies in Pain Tarja Laine 2017-04 The films of Darren Aronofsky invite emotional engagement by means of affective resonance between the film and the spectator's lived body. Aronofsky's films, which include a rich range of production from Requiem for a Dream to Black Swan, are often considered "cerebral" because they explore topics like mathematics, madness, hallucinations, obsessions, social anxiety, addiction, psychosis, schizophrenia, and neuroscience. Yet this interest in intelligence and mental processes is deeply embedded in the operations of the body, shared with the spectator by means of a distinctively corporeal audiovisual style. Bodies in Pain looks at how Aronofsky's films engage the spectator in an affective form of viewing that involves all the senses, ultimately engendering a process of (self) reflection through their emotional dynamics.

Darren Aronofsky's Films and the Fragility of Hope Jadranka Skorin-Kapov 2015-11-19 Darren Aronofsky's Films and the Fragility of Hope offers the first sustained analysis of the current oeuvre of the film director, screenwriter, and producer Darren Aronofsky. Including Pi (1998), Requiem for a Dream (2000), The Fountain (2006), The Wrestler (2008), Black Swan (2010), and Noah (2014), Aronofsky's filmography is discussed with respect to his style and the themes of his films, making astute connections with the work of other directors, other movies and works of art, and connecting his films with other disciplines such as math, philosophy, psychology, and art history. Jadranka Skorin-Kapov deploys her background in philosophy and math to analyze an American filmmaker with an individual voice, working on both independent productions and big-budget Hollywood films. Aronofsky is revealed to be a philosopher's director, considering the themes of life and death, addiction and obsession, sacrifice, and the fragility of hope. Skorin-Kapov discusses his ability to visually present challenging intersections between art and philosophy. Concluding with a transcript of a conversation between the author and Aronofsky himself, Darren Aronofsky's Films and the Fragility of Hope is a much-needed study on this American auteur.

Films Directed by Darren Aronofsky Source Wikipedia 2013-09 Please note that the content of this book primarily consists of articles available from Wikipedia or other free sources online. Commentary (films not included). Pages: 22. Chapters: Black Swan (film), Noah (film), Pi (film), Requiem for a Dream, The Fountain, The Wrestler (2008 film). Excerpt: The Fountain is a 2006 American romantic drama film, which blends elements of fantasy, history, religion, and science fiction. It is directed by Darren Aronofsky, and stars Hugh Jackman and Rachel Weisz. The film comprises three storylines where Jackman and Weisz play different sets of characters: a modern-day scientist and his cancer-stricken wife, a conquistador and his queen, and a space traveler in the future who hallucinates his lost love. The storylines-interwoven with use of match cuts and recurring visual motifs-reflect the themes of love and mortality. Aronofsky originally planned to direct The Fountain on a $70 million budget with Brad Pitt and Cate Blanchett in the lead roles, but Pitt's withdrawal and cost overruns led Warner Bros. to shut down production. The director rewrote the script to be sparser, and was able to resurrect the film with a $35 million budget with Jackman and Weisz in the lead roles. Production mainly took place on a sound stage in Montreal, Quebec, and the director used macro photography to create key visual effects for The Fountain at a low cost. The film was released theatrically in the United States and Canada on November 22, 2006. It grossed $10,144,010 in the United States and Canada and $5,761,344 in other territories for a worldwide total of $15,978,422. Critics' reactions to the film were divided. At its core, The Fountain is the story of a 21st century man, Tom, (Hugh Jackman), losing his wife Izzi (Rachel Weisz) to cancer in 2005. As she is dying, Izzi begs Tommy to share what time they have left together, but he is focused on his quest to find a cure for her. While he's working in the lab, she writes a story about 16th...

Requiem for a Dream Rachel Lawson 2021-11-20 Rachel is a poet-writer versed in prose as much as she is rhyme. She loves to weave words and for the most part has no idea where the words are leading her to, she finds it the fun way to write. In author's words on her writing style from her poem The Flow of Magical Words. "I love words, which pour easily from my pen, when I put pen to paper a world of words does open, it flows on the page it's soul mate, though no one can read the scrawl of words which well inside and opens a gate, out comes beauty, rhymes of passion, sage words and gloom, rhyming poem, deathly prose dark as the hand of doom, the right word is magic in my hand, like a lover sigh lightly fanned."

Requiem for a Dream Hubert Selby 2011-12-13 A tale of four people trapped by their addictions, the basis for the acclaimed Darren Aronofsky film, by the author of Last Exit to Brooklyn. Her son, Harry, is living in the streets with his friend Tyrone and girlfriend Marion, where they spend their days selling drugs and dreaming of escape. When their heroin supply dries up, all three descend into an abyss of dependence and despair, their lives, like Sara's, doomed by the destructive power of drugs. Tragic and captivating, Requiem for a Dream is one of Selby's most powerful works, and an indelible portrait of the ravages of addiction. Mother! Darren Aronofsky Darren Aronofsky 2018-02-13 Equal parts visual chronicle and artful scene study, mother! The Making of the Fever Dream recounts Darren Aronofsky's spellbinding second half of mother!, and how it was constructed, with corresponding screen grabs, behind-the-scenes photography, script cues, and the annotated maps of his shot list. mother! The Making of the Fever Dream is a deep dive into an auteur's process about the heavily talked-about film mother! and its Bosch-like riveting sequence. From Aronofsky (Black Swan, Requiem for a Dream), mother! is the filmmaker's newest polarizing offering, a psychological horror film with small nods to Roman Polanski, Luis Bunuel, and David Cronenberg, but is wholly Aronofsky's original vision, a film presented in his singular and arresting style. This chronicle is a beautiful, dynamic presentation of that sequence, with corresponding screen grabs, behind-the-scenes photography, the script as it pertains to the sequence, and the "maps" of his shot list. mother! The Making of the Fever Dream also includes a preface from Aronofsky about this shoot, and this book is a record of a film that will have audiences, Aronofsky fans, and film school denizens discussing the movie for years to come.

Requiem for a Dream Patrica Goodman 2020-07-29 Imaginatively evoking the inner landscape of human beings longing to connect, to love and feel loved, the film is a parable of happiness gloriously found and tragically lost. "Requiem for a Dream" tells parallel stories that are linked by the relationship between the lonely, widowed Sara Goldfarb and her sweet but aimless son, Harry. The plump Sara, galvanized by the prospect of appearing on a TV game show, has started on a dangerous diet regimen to beautify herself for a national audience.

Requiem for the American Dream Noam Chomsky 2017-03-28 A NEW YORK TIMES BESTSELLER! In his first major book on the subject of income inequality, Noam Chomsky skewers the fundamental tenets of neoliberalism and casts a clear, cold, patient eye on the economic facts of life. What are the ten principles of concentration of wealth and power at work in America today? They're simple enough: reduce democracy, shape ideology, redesign the economy, shift the burden onto the poor and middle classes, attack the solidarity of the people, let special interests run the regulators, engineer election results, use fear and the power of the state to keep the rabble in line, manufacture consent, marginalize the population. In Requiem for the American Dream, Chomsky devotes a chapter to each of these ten principles, and adds readings from some of the core texts that have influenced his thinking to bolster his argument. To create Requiem for the American Dream, Chomsky and his editors, the filmmakers Peter Hutchison, Kelly Nyks, and Jared P. Scott, spent countless hours together over the course of five years, from 2011 to 2016. After the release of the film version, Chomsky and the editors returned to the many hours of tape and transcript and created a document that included three times as much text as was used in the film. The book that has resulted is nonetheless arguably the most succinct and tightly woven of Chomsky's long career, a beautiful vessel—including old-fashioned ligatures in the typeface—in which to carry Chomsky's bold and uncompromising vision, his perspective on the economic reality and its impact on our political and moral well-being as a nation. "During the Great Depression, which I'm old enough to remember, it was bad—much worse subjectively than today. But there was a sense that we'll get out of this somehow, an expectation that things were going to get better . . ." —from Requiem for the American Dream

Clint Mansell: Music in the Films "Requiem for a Dream" and "The Fountain" by Darren Aronofsky Visnja Krzic 2015 This monograph examines how minimalist techniques and the influence of rock music shape the film scores of the British film composer Clint Mansell (b. 1963) and how these scores differ from the usual Hollywood model. The primary focus of this study is Mansell's work for two films by the American director Darren Aronofsky (b. 1969), which earned both Mansell and Aronofsky the greatest recognition: Requiem for a Dream (2000) and The Fountain (2006). This analysis devotes particular attention to the relationship between music and filmic structure in the earlier of the two films. It also outlines a brief evolution of musical minimalism and explains how a composer like Clint Mansell, who has a seemingly unusual background for a minimalist, manages to meld some of minimalism's characteristic techniques into his own work, blending them with aspects of rock music, a genre closer to his musical origins. This study also characterizes the film scoring practices that dominated Hollywood scores throughout the twentieth century while emphasizing the changes that occurred during this period of history to enable someone with Mansell's background to become a Hollywood film composer.

Kamera und Montage in "Requiem for a Dream" Corinna Gronau 2014-08-13 Studienarbeit aus dem Jahr 2009 im Fachbereich Filmwissenschaft, Note: 1,7, Friedrich-Schiller-Universität Jena, Veranstaltung: Einführung in die Filmanalyse, Sprache: Deutsch, Abstract: REQUIEM FOR A DREAM (Darren Aronofsky, USA 2000) ist ein US-amerikanischer Film vom Regisseur Darren Aronofsky aus dem Jahr 2000. Auf dem gleichnamigen Roman von Hubert Selby Jr. basierend, erzählt der Film den Niedergang von vier Drogensüchtigen in Brooklyn. Die jungen Leute Harry (Jared Leto), sein Freund Tyrone (Marlon Wayans) und seine Freundin Marion (Jennifer Connelly) konsumieren jede Art von Droge von Marihuana bis Heroin und versuchen sich mit dem Verkauf von Drogen über Wasser zu halten. Sie sehnen sich nach einem besseren Leben, geraten jedoch im Laufe des Films immer tiefer in die Abhängigkeit. Sara Goldfarb (Ellen Burstyn), Harrys Mutter, ist eine einsame, verwitwete Frau, die ihre Tage vor dem Fernseher verbringt und für ihren grossen Traum, einen Besuch bei ihrer Lieblingsfernsehshow, bereit ist alles zu tun. Um schnell Gewicht zu verlieren, lässt sie sich Appetitzügler verschreiben. Der Konsum von Diätpillen führt bei der alten Frau zu Wahnvorstellungen und letztlich zum volligen Realitätsverlust. Am Ende des Films ist jeder allein und die Traume sind gestorben. Sara landet in der Psychiatrie, Tyrone im Gefängnis, Harry verliert einen Arm und Marion wird für ihre Drogensucht zur Prostituierten. Der Film enthält eine grosse Anzahl verschiedener visueller Techniken von Split Screen, über Zeitraffer, Snorrry Cam und Fischaugen, bis hin zu Computersimulationen. Die vorliegende Seminararbeit beschränkt sich auf die Analyse der Kamera- und der Montagetechnik. Dazu dienen ausgewählte Szenen, deren Wirkung und Bedeutung für den Film im Verlauf der Analyse herausgearbeitet wurde

Song of the Silent Snow Hubert Selby 2013-07-02 "Earthy, thoughtful, funny" stories of love and despair, destiny and dumb luck, by the author of Last Exit to Brooklyn and Requiem for a Dream (Library Journal). Hubert Selby Jr. made an indelible mark on contemporary American literature with Last Exit to Brooklyn, a controversial novel that explored life at the lowest strata of urban society. But even before that novel altered the landscape of American fiction, Selby was honing his literary craft with short fiction that cast the human condition in a stark light, stories "known for their harrowing portrayal of mere mortals chasing their delusions down the drain" (Salon.com). The stories here represent Selby at his best, whether he's exploring a married commuter's fantasy about a stranger he sees every morning on the subway or wryly spinning the tale of a salesman whose life is dictated by Chinese fortune cookies. In these pages, a homeless man clings to his old army coat during a bitter lost weekend; and a young man's successful attempt to impress a girl on their first date comes back to haunt him. In the intimate, sometimes shocking portraits collected in Song of the Silent Snow, Selby finds the delicate balance between joy and despair, revealing humanity in the darkest corners of existence. "Selby's writing never diminished; it always increased. His body of work is among the very highest of contemporary writers. He did not get the acknowledgment that he deserved, but he will." —John Rechy, author of City of Night This ebook features an illustrated biography of Hubert Selby Jr. including rare photos from the author's estate.

Close Reading New Media Jan van Van Looy 2003 Close Reading New Media is the first publication to apply the method of close analysis to new media. Since the early nineteen-nineties, electronic art and literature have continually gained importance in artistic and academic circles. Significant critical and theoretical attention has been paid to how new media allow the text to break traditional power relations and boundaries. The passive reader becomes an active participant choosing his own path and assembling not just his own interpretation of the text (level of the signified), but also his own text (level of the signifier). Texts no longer have a beginning or an ending, being a web of interlinked nodes. The decentered nature of electronic text empowers and invites the reader to take part in the literary process. Poststructuralist theorists predicted a total liberation of textual restrictions imposed by the medium of print. However, while these are culturally significant claims, little attention has been paid to their realization. The goal of this volume is twofold. Our aim is to shed light on how ideas and theories have been translated into concrete works, and we want to comment on the process of close reading and how it can be applied to electronic literature. While all contributions deal with particular works, their aim is always to provide insight into how electronic fiction and new media can be read. This book proposes close readings of work by Mark Amerika, Darren Aronofsky, M.D. Coverley, Raymond Federman, Shelley Jackson, Rick Pryll, Geoff Ryman and Stephanie Strickland.

The Deep State of Europe Basil A. Coronakis 2017-05 What is the European Commission? It is the most sophisticated and the least transparent administrative machine in the world. It is self-reproducing, with tax-free salaries beyond fantasy, unaccountable and with discretionary powers to violate rules and laws at will. This is the European Commission, which without any political legitimization, rules over you and over another half billion Europeans, with your money. The Department of Propaganda of the Commission, officially known as the Directorate General of Communication and Spokesperson Service (DG COM), is its black hole. It spends billions and, under the pretext of data protection, nobody knows how it does. Not even the European Parliament, let alone the Member States. Here's just one example. In mid-December, any December of any year, DG COM signs a contract to buy subscriptions worth €57,000. As the amount is below the €60,000 level, no tender is required. If a citizen asks for the contract (Regulation 1049/2001), the Commission will release the name of the beneficiary and the total amount. Yet, claiming "protection of commercial secrets", it will not disclose the duration of the contract. Why? Because the €57,000 of the contract corresponds to subscription services for the last two weeks of the year. Subscription contracts are always stipulated on a calendar year basis. In the following years, the contract will be renewed (or not, depending on the behavior of the beneficiary) every January, for the entire year (52 weeks). Although the total amount (€1,482,000) exceeds by far the threshold of €60,000 requiring a tender procedure to be launched, there will be no tender. Indeed, it will be only a contract renewal not requiring any tender.

Gnawing Vultures from Within - Concepts of Addiction and the Addiction to Concepts in Darren Aronofsky's "Requiem for a Dream" Anika Meier 2009-01 Bachelor Thesis from the year 2008 in the subject American Studies - Literature, grade: 1,3, University of Paderborn, 48 entries in the bibliography, language: English, comment: "A very creative and innovative approach of the topic of addiction and drugs. Formally correct, thoroughly researched and highly entertaining to read!" (zustandiger Prof. für diese BA-Arbeit) Im Anhang befinden sich hilfreiche Bilder, die die Bewegung der Geschichte unterstützen., abstract: Die Arbeit ist zwar innerhalb der Amerikanistik geschrieben, hat jedoch auch einige filmwissenschaftliche Elemente. Ich habe darin den Zusammenhang von Drogen innerhalb unserer modernen Gesellschaft untersucht (immer mit Hinblick auf den Roman/den Film "Requiem for a Dream") sowohl in sozio-kultureller als auch philosophischer und psychologischer Sicht. Wer den Film kennt, wird wissen, dass Abhängigkeit hierbei jedoch eine weitere Dimension durchbricht, angetrieben durch das parallel Storytelling der Geschichte von Sara Goldfarb. Die Geschichte unterscheidet sich zunehmend von anderen "Drogenfilmen," sie etabliert eine Ebene von Abhängigkeit, die weit über die übliche Nahaufnahme der Nadel hinausgeht. Sie stellt ein Epigramm unserer Gesellschaft dar ist und ein sehr spannendes und lehrreiches Thema!
